Problem Statement

Context → Problem → Sub-Problem → Evidence

Youth employability and skill gap among college students is a major problem in India as less than 50% college students are employable (India Skills Report, 2021) and a lot of them (especially from government institutions with limited resources) struggle to find jobs and internships.

According to a survey done by ILO, in 2019, 53 percent of Indian businesses were unable to hire candidates due to a lack of future skills. The current education system accentuates the problem by not being able to bridge the gap between theory and real world skills and the curriculum needs serious reforms to ensure students have job skills by the time they graduate.

Ask and Theory of Change

IF the ministry of education and skill development releases mandatory upskilling experiential learning programs in all UGC colleges that focuses on core employability, IT and entrepreneurial skills of the 21st century

THEN it would empower the youth by offering them opportunities for their professional development, make them job ready, and give them a better chance of being employed thereby improving India's LFPR

Quantitative Analysis

India Skills Report, in a 2021 report, estimated that overall employability in India is only at 45.9%, that is, at least one of two graduates is not ready for the job market.

An Interpretation

- 46.21% of Indian graduates are unemployable – with 64.7 lakh university graduates (2019 estimate), Almost 30 lakh are unemployable.
- With 50% of our population below the age of 25, that is a significant proportion of human capital not utilised to its potential.
- That is more number of people than in some of 6 India's biggest companies combined

Total employees: 5 lakh

Total employees: 2.43 lakh

Total employees: 2.5 lakh

Total employees: 2.36 lakh

Total employees: 2 lakh

Total employees: 1.6 lakh

Can we reach 5 trillion $ with half our youth unemployable?

“Prime Minister Modi’s vision of India becoming a $5 trillion economy requires increasing the per-capita income of Indians which can happen only when people get employment, which consequently demands job skills and useful talent.

Quantitative Analysis: Competitiveness and Intra-Country Comparison

- India ranks 67th globally in data skills, according to Coursera's 2021 Global Skills Report (GSR)
- Less than 5% of India's workforce is formally skilled, compared to China's 20%, South Korea's 96%, Japan's 80%, Germany's 75%, United Kingdom's 68%, and the United States' 52%, according to the ministry of skill development and entrepreneurship's annual report for 2015-16.
- The mismatch between skill, academic training, and employment has broadened to an extent where, on one hand, employers are unable to discover suitably trained people, and on the other, the youth is unable to find the kind of jobs they aspire for.

Launch Strategy: Our launch would be spread over a week. We would conduct conferences in at least 8-10 major DU college (during the placement season) to create awareness and excitement around skill development them. We chose the placement season because that is the time many people realise gaps in their skillset.
